

GRADUATE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

- Interested in a career in agricultural contract research?
- Keen to develop your scientific & business skills?
- Aiming to make your mark on the future of agriculture?

Peracto is Australasia's leading and fastest growing agricultural research company. We specialise in applying insights and technology to improve practices and outcomes in agriculture. We are committed to excellence in research and we provide expert services to our clients that deliver accuracy and genuine value. Our focus is on people, efficient systems and client outcomes.

Peracto services local, national and global markets from 11 locations across Australasia. As part of the broader Staphyt network we now access a range of resources from an organisation with over 475 people across 15 European countries.

To achieve our Vision of "preferred industry provider" and enable us to serve the evolving agricultural market, we need the best, brightest and most committed people.

This position is in support of applied, field-based research and development, involving hands on field work in a range of crops.

Peracto's industry-leading Graduate Development Program offers a small number of highly motivated individuals the chance to grow and forge a long-term career in arguably the most important industry on earth.

On successful completion of the Peracto 12-month GDP, you will continue your career in one of Peracto's many locations throughout Australasia. You will become an integral part of a passionate and dedicated scientific team, and your professional development will continue to be supported across your career.

If this opportunity sounds like it fits you and your career goals, we would love to hear from you. A full position description is available on the Peracto website www.peracto.com. To qualify for the program you must be an Australian or New Zealand citizen or be eligible for an appropriate work visa. For further enquiries contact Phillip Frost 0409 841 692.
